A study shows that people in countries, such as Japan, Korea, and Singapore, sleep the least. People in Tokyo, the biggest city in Japan, sleep for around 6 hours. The sleeping hours of Singaporeans are only 30 minutes more than Japanese. How about the country whose people sleep the most? It is Australia. Australians sleep for 7 hours at average.

What is the reason why Asians, like Japanese, Koreans, and Singaporeans, have the least sleep hours around the world? Maybe it is because of the cultures of these countries. People in these countries are hard-working and work for the longest. They can still work hard even after they go home from work!
